

Through the Grapevine

Level E

Design and conduct a survey of your own to determine how many servings of fruits and vegetables people eat each day. Select a sample of at least 15 individuals. Track the sample's eating habits for about a week. Collect the data from your study. Analyze your data using statistical tools. Report your findings using statistical measures and graphs. State the conclusions of your study and whether they are consistent with other studies that conducted similar analyses.

